Black Madam.

The name itself sounds conspicuous.

She's a woman that desperately wanted fame,

regardless of how many people she'd have to hurt.

She's a true charlatan;

as a deceitful way of self-promotion, she posted a picture on Facebook of a certificate from Billboard Magazine for a song that she did a cover of.

She claims it was her version that landed on the top ranks of Billboard Magazine:
"Black Madam Ranks 4th On Billboard Awards For Song 'Come On In My Kitchen'"

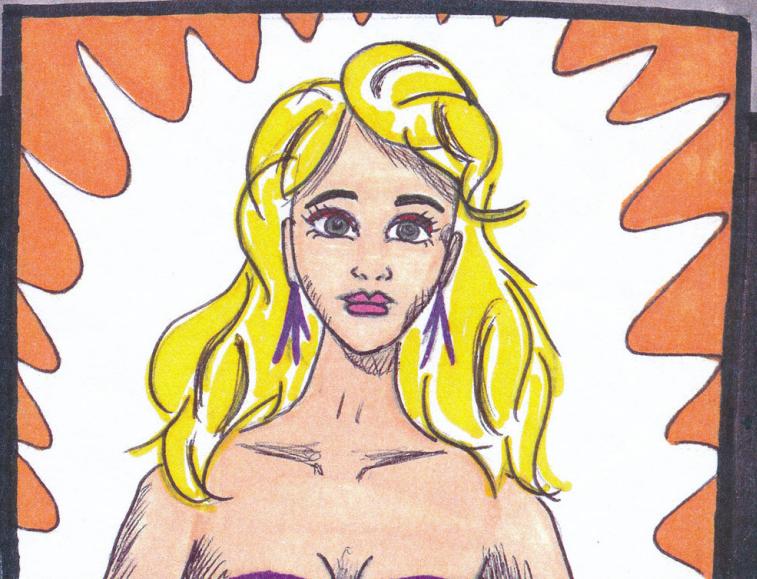

Black Madam has less than 1,500 followers on Facebook.

Needless to say, her song was never on the top rank of any magazine, nor has anyone from Billboard even heard of her.

There isn't much of a market for a middle-aged wannabe "gothic hip-hop" funk musician/music video producer.

The Black Madam's story starts with Claudia Aderotimi, a stripper from London who wanted a little more junk in her trunk but didn't have the money to go to a professional. Why pay full price when you can get a discount from a stranger?

Aderotimi thought all was well; Black Madam seemed comforting. She used sterile needles that came from original packaging. The toxic substance that she was about to inject into Aderotimi, however, was stored in a water bottle.

Unfortunately, for Aderotimi, she put her trust in the wrong person. Black Madam was no cosmetic specialist — though from the makeup caked onto her face, she certainly could pass as one. After $1,800, this was her reward:

Aderotimi didn't live. Black Madam injected her with an unknown toxic substance. Instead of just sitting in her rear, the needle hit a blood vessel and the substance entered straight into her blood stream. It quickly traveled into her lungs and killed her. The injection itself was very painful, but her death was even more so.

BUT CLAUDIA WASN'T THE ONLY ONE WHO SUFFERED FROM YOUR DEVIOUS DEEDS. ON FEBRUARY 19, 2012, YOU INJECTED A WOMAN AT ONE OF YOUR 'PUMPING PARTIES' IN EAST GERMANTOWN, PA. YOUR INCAPABLE HANDS LANDED HER IN THE HOSPITAL THAT SAME NIGHT. SHE HAS TREATED AT TEMPLE UNIVERSITY HOSPITAL FOR PNEUMONIA AND PULMONARY EMBOLISM

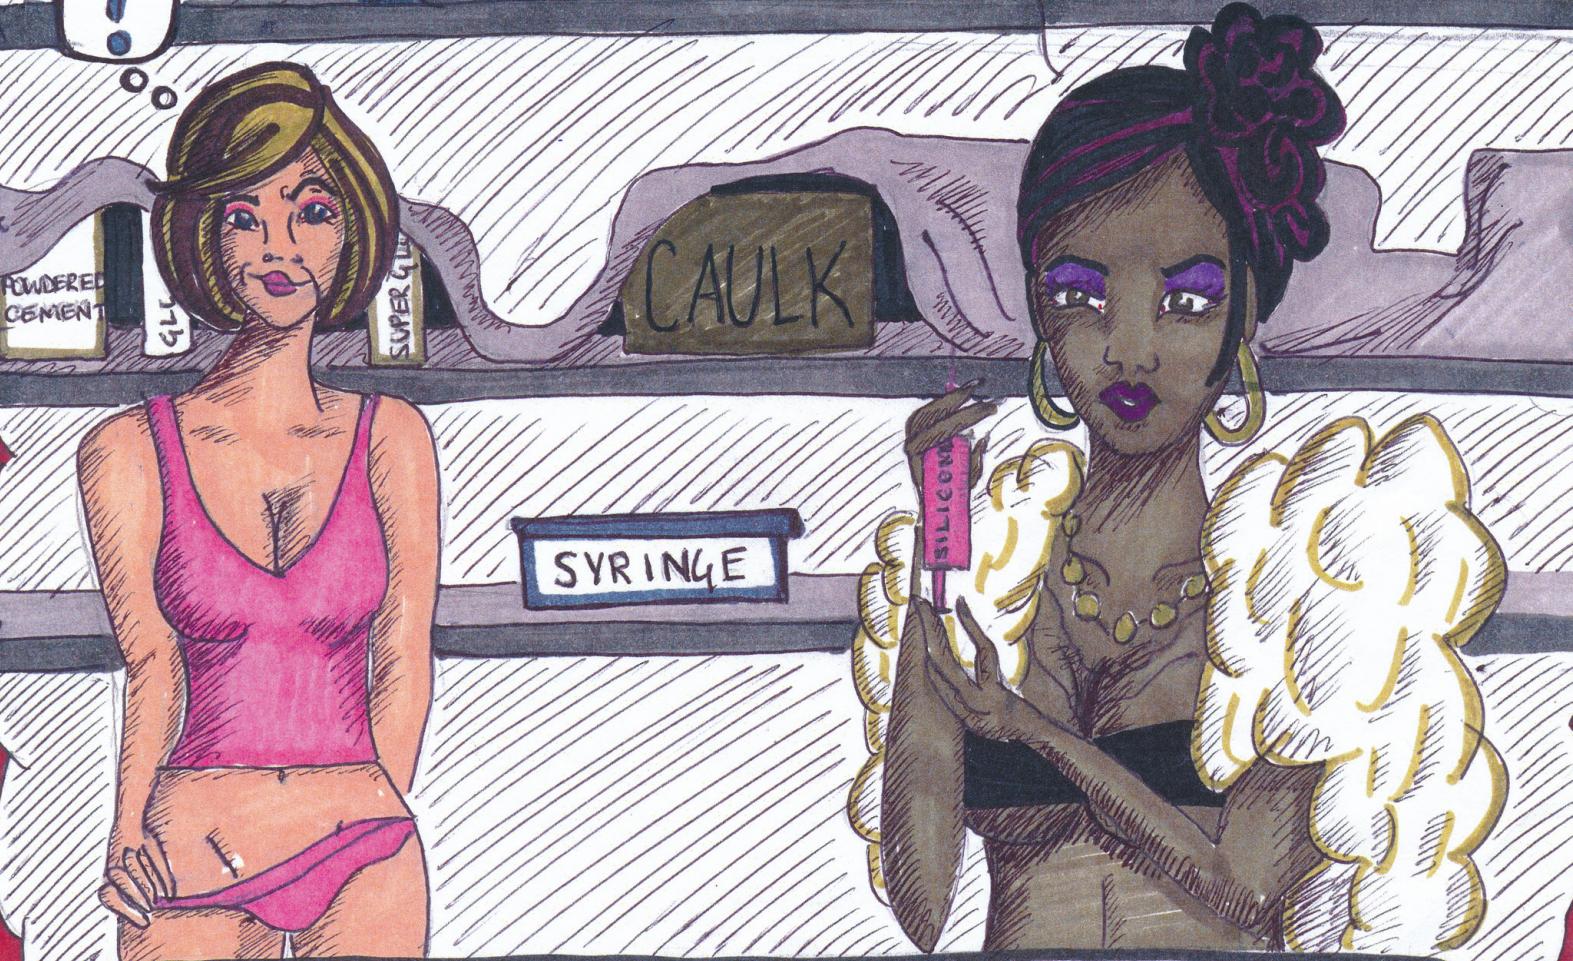

THE SAME ILL-FATE CAME TO MELISSA LISATH, THE 27 YEAR OLD THAT YOU INJECTED AT A RED ROOF INN IN MOUNT LAUREL, NJ., IN SEPTEMBER OF '08.

SHE ENDED UP BEING IN A COMA FOR 3 MONTHS AND WEIGHED 80 POUNDS.
